Police Lack Clues in Murders

Little Rock, April 7 — (AP) — Police today centered their investigation on Charles Binaggio's out of town connections but they were given little help from friends of the North Side political lord.

Binaggio, a former worker in the Pendergast organization, was killed yesterday.

A strong-arm aide, ex-convict, also was killed. Binaggio broke with the Pendergast group after boss Tom's death and developed a strong following in Kansas City northside.

The crime brought repercussions in Kansas state and national capital.

In Washington, Rep. Short (R-Iowa) declared Binaggio was killed because he was "in the way" in the Missouri senatorial primary.

The congressman said Binaggio was backing a senatorial candidate opposed by President Truman.

Rep. Macey (R-N.Y.) called for a congressional investigation into the slaying of crime and gangster.

Missouri Governor Forrest Smith ordered the state highway patrol to investigate the slaying.

Police questioned more than 20 persons but said they had no clues to the slaying. No weapons were found in the First District.

Jerusalem Is Filled With Holy Pilgrims

Jerusalem, April 7 — (AP) — Thousands of Christian pilgrims today filed past jagged reminders of recent war to observe the passion of the Prince of Peace on the route he took to his crucifixion.

Through barbed wire entanglements, past dragon-tooth tank traps and ancient walls scarred by hundreds of battles, pilgrims make their Good Friday march to the sacred Via Dolorosa in the old city which is now held by the Arabs of the kingdom of Hashemite Jordan.

Thousands of pilgrims have come from all parts of the world. Some entered the ancient city from new Jerusalem, held by the Jews as part of their new state of Israel, and some came from Arab-held Palestine and Jordan.

Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox followers and Protestants alike celebrate Holy week at the same time this year.

Roman Catholics are to celebrate the mass of the pre-sanctified in the chapel of Calvary, at the site where Jesus Christ is said to have been nailed to the cross.

A burial procession this evening will win through the dark and narrow streets of the Via Dolorosa, which now teems with Arab shops and a life almost unchanged through the centuries.

The 14 original "stations of the cross" are on this stone-walled street. Marked by shrines are the spots, as described in the New Testament, where Jesus paused on his way to Calvary and where he later was buried before the resurrection.

Christians Pray on Eve of Easter

By The Associated Press

It's an old story, and most people heard it when they were so young it seemed like just another story, but it was a story they would never forget. And especially today, they were remembering it.

All over this land, and in countries across the seas, Christians paused to give renewed homage to the man of Galilee who on this day 19 centuries ago died on a wooden cross on a hill outside Jerusalem.

There were special prayers on the lips of many today, and sermons from high prelates and from country preachers. There were ceremonies, and candle-lightings, processions and plays, and heads bowed together.

Business houses in many cities ordered their doors closed, at least for the period of special devotion from noon to 3 p.m. — the hours of Christ's Passion.

In Rome, thousands of Holy Year pilgrims knelt in reverence in St. Peter's Basilica, the world's largest church. In Jerusalem, other pilgrims filed through battle-scarred streets on their Good Friday march over the route Christ took to the crucifixion.

The ancient city was jammed with travelers from all parts of the world — Roman Catholics, Protestants and Eastern orthodox followers alike — all there for the observance of Holy Week.

Special messages, many of them Democratic club where the men were killed.

Four shots had been fired into each man's head at close range.

Distant Star

THIS STORY: Clemency Notion, a young man, is an isolated but justly loved in the North African desert as a nursery governess to Syria's small daughter Baba. The house belongs to Piers Amblerley, brother of Syria's husband. Clemency notices however that Joe did not meet his wife and daughter at the airport and that Piers was met them, was reserved and withdrawn in his attitude toward Syria.

III

CLEMENCY and Baba were taken straight to the nursery apartments situated at the back of the house and reached by crossing a courtyard filled with flowers.

The rooms were charming, light and airy, and, save for their windows and the outlook, might have been the nurseries and a bedroom of any up-to-date country house. There was also a small sitting room which was for Clemency in her off-duty moments.

The suitcases were brought by a white-clad Arab servant who flashed his teeth at Baba's new nurse in a wide, friendly smile. As the days went on she was to get to know Ahmed well—he and his sister Loulie waited on the nurseries.

Baba was tired out, and, like most tired children, inclined to be fretful. Clemency gave directions for the little girl's supper to be brought in 20 minutes, and got her ready for bed meanwhile, though she protested vigorously that she wanted to see her Daddy first. While she was making herself obstreperous on this point, Justine came in.

"Is Madame's case among yours?" she asked. "The large one. It seems to have been mislaid."

"Do you mind looking in my room?" said Clemency. "I haven't seen it."

A search produced no result, but Justine lingered. "It was certainly in the car. They have it somewhere," she said, shrugging her shoulders. "Why does Madame Baba cry?"

"She's disappointed not to see sessions and plays and heads bowed together."

Truman Finds Its Cold Outside

Key West, Fla., April 7 — (AP) — President Truman hoped for a break in the weather today in order to get in at least three more vacation swims.

It was cold outside yesterday. After a shivering walk to the beach, he gave his head an extra shake and walked back to the winter White House. The temperature was 37 degrees at noon.

Some of the presidential staff wore topcoats last night.

Everything is in readiness for Mr. Truman's flight back to Washington Monday with his daughter, Margaret. Mrs. Truman is going home today, driving to Miami and taking a train from there.

The Trumans are getting ready for a reception for President Gabriel Gonzales Videla of Chile, whom they will entertain with a "white tie" dinner at the Hotel Carlton in Washington Wednesday night.

The Chilean leader will occupy the winter White House here Tuesday night when he flies to Florida in the White House plane, the "Independence." Mr. Truman will go to Washington in the so-called "Dew Drop," a Constellation.

Acheson and Dulles to Air Foreign Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 7 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson and his new Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, will meet soon to decide on the specific foreign policy problems Dulles will tackle.

This was disclosed by Acheson last night in a statement which also announced that Ambassador at Large Philip C. Jessup will lead an advance party to Europe for the diplomatic conferences to be held in London next month.

These conferences will bring together (1) Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman for talks on the cold war strategy of the major Western powers and (2) the foreign ministers of the 14 North Atlantic treaty nations for an effort to broaden the practical aims of their alliance.

State department officials expressed confidence today that as a result of the appointment of Dulles as Republican consultant to Acheson, the American secretary will go into the London meetings in a much stronger position than seemed likely a few weeks ago.

This will be due, they said, to what they called the new evidence of a determination by leaders of the Truman administration and foreign policy leaders of the Republican party to run this country's foreign policy on a bipartisan basis.

LEWIS LIKES Idea of Union Merger

Washington, April 7 — (AP) — A warm reception by John L. Lewis strengthened prospects today of merging the nation's big labor unions into a single, powerful federation.

Lewis yesterday accepted CIO President Philip Murray's plan to establish a joint committee for cooperation on legislative, political and economic problems.

The same committee, according to Murray's plan, would work to achieve an actual merger of all labor unions.

An answer to Murray's proposal was awaited from the AFL, the railroad labor unions and the independent machinists union, also invited to join.

AFL President William Green greeted the idea cordially and said he planned to discuss it with Murray. A reply was promised today from Al Hayes, president of the machinists union. The rail unions were considering their replies.

Together, the unions claim about 10,000,000 members. A pledge to act as a team could be the beginning of a Labor party in America, with joint action in national elections.

Washington, April 7 — (AP) — The senate armed services committee has approved a bill to transfer some 30,000 acres of Camp Brotherton, Ark., to the state of Arkansas for use of the national guard.

The bill, already passed by the house, also would give the city of North Little Rock 571.3 acres of the military reservation for a public airport.

Little Rock, April 7 — (AP) — The Arkansas Municipal league voted here yesterday to go ahead with a campaign for a "home rule" amendment to the Arkansas constitution.

Under such an amendment cities would be given broadened power in their own government with less restriction by state legislation particularly in such fields as type of charter, taxation, etc.

The league will circulate petitions to have the proposed amendment placed on the ballot at the November general election.

Such a move was talked in 1948 but did not materialize.

Good Friday Observed Over State

By The Associated Press

Arkansas joined the faithful in other states and lands today in observing Good Friday — a day of mourning throughout the Christian world.

Traditional services from noon to 3 p.m. commemorating the crucifixion of Christ were held in many churches.

Public schools were dismissed for nearly four hours, rising from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to attend religious ceremonies.

Good Friday precedes Easter Sunday, one of the greatest of the Christian religious holidays.

U. S. to Exceed Income by $9 Billion

Washington, April 7 —(AP)—The government, expecting to over-spent its income by more than $9,000,000,000 in the next 15 months, will start borrowing new money next week to make ends meet.

That will add considerably to the government's debts, which already total nearly $256,000,000,000.

The first step in the new borrowing program, as announced by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder last night, will take this form:

The treasury owes about $900,000,000 in 91-day bills falling due April 13. It will sell $1,000,000 in new 91-day bills that day to pay off the due debt and leave it $10,000,000 extra cash.

Except in scale, the transaction will be the same as that of a man who has a $900 note falling due at the bank next Thursday and "takes care of it" by giving a new note for $1,000.

The treasury will have a chance to pick up an extra $100,000,000 in each of the two succeeding weeks by identical transactions, for it has $900,000,000 issues of 91-day bills also falling due April 20 and 27.

Next week will mark the first time in seven months that the treasury has sought to borrow extra funds in the public money market, made up mostly of banks.

it neuroses that will handicap it to its dying day.

Many husbands and wives who have come to hate each other keep on living together for the sake of the children, but the sacrifice is made in vain if they are not big enough and strong enough and do not care enough for the children to refrain from quarreling.

Dear Miss Dix: My marriage has been an unusually successful one and I am passing on my rules of how to be happy though married to other women. The first is:

Pocket your pride. Don't be ashamed to admit you made a mistake. Don't hesitate to ask for forgiveness when you have done wrong.

Second: Concentrate on the good in your husband. Look for his virtues instead of his faults. I found many things to admire in my husband that I never knew he possessed, just by searching for them.

Third: Forget yourself. Forget your virtues, your prejudices, your hurts, real or imaginary. You can't possibly have nerves if you don't think about yourself.

Fourth: Stay behind the scenes. I was secretary to a big official for seven years before I got married. Eight hours a day I devoted to developing his success, but I kept in the background and he got the credit for it. When I married I used the same tactics with my husband. I gave him the benefit of all my brains and used them in pushing him along, but I kept under cover.

Fifth: Develop your husband's belief in himself. When I married my husband he had a bad case of inferiority complex. I began cultivating his faith in himself, giving him credit for every little bread, asking his opinion when mine was probably better. Now he is as good as I tell him and he is a success.

Sixth: And lastly, put on a smile that won't come off. A man likes a cheerful wife and one who looks like she is glad she married him.

These rules have worked with me. Mayby they will work with other women.

A WIFE

Answer: I think they will, and I advise every married woman to cut them out and paste them on her mirror where she will see them every time she puts on her complexion.

Dear Miss Dix: Which of two men can cause a wife the most unhappiness, the one who drinks, or the one who philanders, other good qualities? Being about even?

Answer: I think the philander makes his wife far more unhappy than the drunkard does. He tortures her with jealousy, drunkard can cause his wife a lot of misery; he can keep always on the tenterhooks of poverty and all her with drink. But the philanderer breaks his wife's heart. Jury to Decide Fate of Mercy Slayer

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Allentown, Pa., April 7 — (AP) — A jury of eight men and four women today weighed the fate of Harold Mohr — accused by the prosecution of stepping "into the shoes of God" when he shot his blind, handicapped brother.

The Allentown jury received the case late yesterday but was adjourned overnight after five hours of deliberation failed to produce a verdict.

Mohr, 36-year-old tannery worker, is being tried on charges of murder and voluntary manslaughter in the mercy slaying of his brother, Walter, 55, in their near-by Coplay home on March 8.

In his final summation, District Attorney Kenneth H. Koch asked the jury to convict Mohr to "bring mercy killing to a halt." Mohr in his statement said he shot his brother to end his suffering after Walter's repeated requests to be put out of his misery.

"We've been fooling around with the Almighty," Koch told the jury. "That's what Harold Mohr did. He stepped into the shoes of God when he shot his brother."

Before retiring for the night, the jury asked Judge James F. Reminger for additional instructions. The jurors said they weren't clear on the testimony of two psychiatrists who testified the defendant was temporarily insane when he shot his brother with a deer rifle.

'Battleground', M-G-M's Stirring Drama of the Gags, Guts and Glory of a Lot of Wonderful Guys Opens Sunday at Saenger

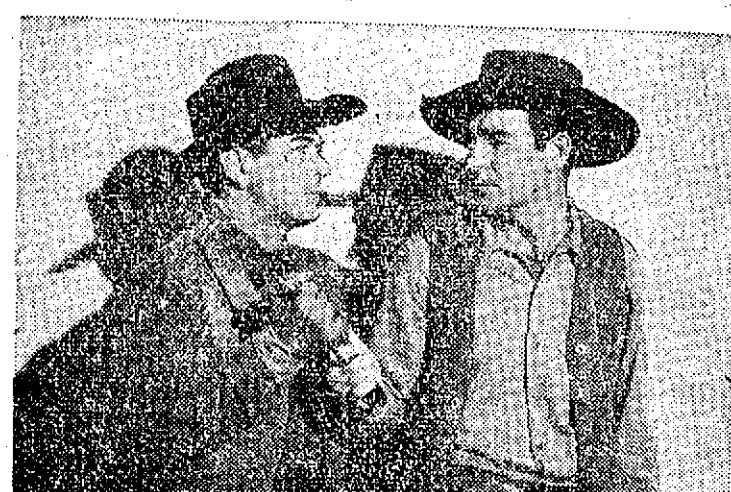

A motion picture that everyone has been waiting for — the first down-to-earth story of the G. I. of World War II, sans flag-waving and mock heroics — has been brought to the screen in "Battleground," M-G-M's impressive Dore Schary production, showing at the Saenger theatre Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Taking the members of the squad in the 101st Airborne Division as its pivotal characters, "Battleground" gives you the laughs, the tears, the bravery, the cowardice, the gripping, the bantering, the boredom and the guts of a cross-section of American G. I.s. In the fateful December of 1944 this squad of mud-stained soldiers is awakened from reports of crumpled Nazi resistance and dreams of Paris furloughs to find itself once again on the move to make a stand against the Krauts at a French town called Bastogne.

And here we get a close-up of some of these bedraggled "Screaming Eagles" — Holley (Van Johnson), carefree six-footer with a weakness for gals, gags and purloined eggs; Harvess (John Hodiak), cynical small-town reporter whose own editorial inspired him to enlist; "Pop" (George Murphy), thirty-five plus, sweating out this discharge; Rodriguez (Ricardo Montalban), courageous California Mexican; Wolowicz (Bruce Cowling), combat loving squad leader; "Kipp" (Douglas Fowley), typical "wise guy"; Standiford (Don Taylor), second in command and larry of inheriting the squad leader's job; Bettis (Richard Jaeckel), who has undergone one shelling too many; Layton (Marshall Thompson), the naive new replacement, and a number of others.

What happens to this assorted group during the seven days up to and including Christmas, 1944, when foxhole world history was made in the crucial battle of Bastogne, when American troops, outnumbered and surrounded, held the surprise Nazi breakthrough, is the story of "Battleground," a narrative told with fidelity and authenticity under the brilliant direction of William A. Wellman.

It's all here — the digging, the artillery shells, the conflicting rumors. "Pop" sweats out his discharge. "Kipp" conveniently loses his false teeth when the going gets rough. Standiford gets sent back to base because of pneumonia, the lucky guy! Jarvess, Holley and Rodriguez go out on a patrol searching for Krauts wearing G. I. uniforms and Rodriguez doesn't come back. Layton smokes his first cigar and gets his first taste of romance the accommodating French girl, Denise (Denise Darce). The field hospital is captured. The aid station turns out of medicine. Tanks are out of gas, guns short of ammunition. Holley takes over the squad when Wolowicz is hit. With a surprise dawn attack comes the German demand for unconditional surrender and General McAuliffe's classic reply: "Nuts!" Bastogne is surrounded and even the cooks and typists move up into the line.

Then the miracle — as it actually happened. American planes showered supplies — Asky filled with billowing parachutes bearing gasoline, ammunition, rations. There'll be more fighting, but already tanks are on their way and the squad — what's left of it — can start dreaming about Paris!

Compromise on Housing Hits Another Delay

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — A bill to channel fresh billions into federal housing activities bumped into a possible delay today after senators and house members had spent nearly 12 straight hours writing it.

The house had laid plans to quit today for an Easter recess until April 18. The question was whether enough members would remain on hand to act on the bill — which is a compromise reached last night between house and senate measures. It affects a number of government home financing programs.

House action would send the bill to the senate for action, expected sometime next week.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky), chairman of the house banking committee, said that although many lawmakers had left for home he thought enough would show in the house to act on the measure.

Both Spence and Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the senate banking committee, said they expected congress to approve the bill.

Unemployment Pay Set Up Back in 1935

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 7 — (AP) — In 1935, as part of the board social security system it was then creating, congress set up a nationwide program for giving pay to jobless people.

Until then only Wisconsin did that. Now all 48 states, plus Hawaii and Alaska, take part in the system.

Yesterday President Truman asked congress to enlarge on this plan created 15 years ago.

The philosophy behind the unemployment pay when they lose their jobs. It goes only to those who were in jobs covered by the law.

The domestic workers, like house servants, people working for non-profit organizations like the Red Cross and churches; and people employed by federal, state or city governments, are not included.

The unemployment pay system is based on a tax which employers must pay to the federal government and to their own states. Out of the tax they collect the states employed.

The money which the states collect goes into a federal trust fund upon which they draw as they need cash. But the states run their own unemployment pay systems, which differ from state to state.

And the federal government gives the states money to run their individual programs. None of this federal money goes to the unemployed anywhere. It can be used by the states only in administering their programs.

Not all employers have to pay the federal unemployment tax. The federal law covers only those employers with eight or more employees in jobs which fall within the law. An employer with less than eight employees is not under the federal law although he may have to pay a state tax.

The tax on a covered employer — under the federal law — can be no more than 3 per cent of the first $3,000 of salary each covered employee gets. Of the 3 per cent, the employer pays three-tenths of that leaves him with no more than 2.7 per cent to pay to the states. Few have to pay that much because the states arrange to give employers a break — especially those who keep their employees working, thus making fewer people drawing unemployment pay.

About 1,400,000 employers pay the tax. At any one time about 32,000,000 workers are in covered jobs although over a year's time a total of around 46,000,000 through job changes, may have moved in or out of such jobs.

In 1949 about 7,400,000 people out of jobs received a total of $1,700,000,000 in unemployment benefits.

The highest possible unemployment benefits. The highest possible unemployment pay anyone can get, according to government officials, is $40 a week in Alaska. This ranges down to a minimum benefit of 50 cents a week in Missouri. Missouri pays more than that, of course, but that's the least anyone can get there.

Only 11 states give a jobless worker additional pay for dependents.

In 1949 the average weekly unemployment payment was $20. The average number of weeks in which the unemployed drew benefits was 12 for the nation. The average

U. S. Submarine Service in 50th Year

Norfolk, Va., April 7 (AP) — The submarine service of the United States navy will observe its 50th anniversary next Tuesday, at a time when:

(1) The submersible, a top strategic trump card, is influencing decisions at political conference tables.

(2) The "silent service" is getting top attention in our navy's planning rooms.

And the submarine service, Atlantic fleet headquarters said today, is marking its anniversary "by eyeing a past that saw it break the back of an enemy power's navy and by girding for the potent future navy chiefs see for it."

On April 11, 1900, migrant Irish Schoolmaster John Holland became the first pioneer in submarine development to see his craft accepted by the navy. Forerunner of today's submersible, its 54-foot hull displaced only 74 tons.
